Rusty Taylor Honored for Excellence in Pest Control

Rusty Taylor is President of Virginia-Based Emergency Pest Control, Inc.

HAYES, VA, April 28, 2009, Rusty Taylor, President of Emergency Pest Control, Inc., has been recognized by Cambridge Who's Who for showing dedication, leadership and excellence in all aspects of pest control.

A successful entrepreneur, Rusty Taylor has 26 years of professional experience in pest control. As president of Emergency Pest Control, Inc., he is responsible for the eradication of general household pests including ants, spiders, roaches, fleas, pantry pests, crickets, silverfish, mice and rats. Additionally, he performs inspections for local realtors and provides moisture control services for residential crawl spaces. Emergency Pest Control, Inc. was recently featured in the Virginia Gazette for their use of the Green Eye Termite Monitor Stations and the addition of natural pest control services—an accomplishment of which Mr. Taylor is especially proud. This year, Emergency Pest Control will celebrate its 22nd anniversary.

Familial support is the undisputed key to Mr. Taylor's success. He holds a pesticide applicators license and a certificate for performing real estate closing inspections from the Virginia Pest Management Association. He studied music education at James Madison University and is a member of the Williamsburg Area Association of Realtors and the National Pest Management Association.
